1 Structures and actors that play a role in gaining a greater understanding and knowledge of young people

Due to the federal structure of Austria not only national organisations but also regional ones are interested in gaining knowledge on young people. On the national level the Federal Ministry for Economy, Family and Youth, the Federal Ministry for Education, Arts and Culture and the Federal Ministry of Science and Research are the main actors for gaining a better knowledge on youth. On regional level the provinces are interested to gain knowledge on youth.

These political institutions are working together with research institutions like universities, colleges, semi-public and private companies, NGOs as well as with private associations. It is planned to make a list of the main actors of youth research accessible on the webpage of the Federal Ministry for Economy, Family and Youth www.bmwfj.gv.at.

In Austria the tradition of youth research goes back to the 60ies – even if it had for a long time no institutionalised connection to universities.

1.1 Specific youth departments in universities dealing with youth issues

In all universities youth is topic of research in different departments. But at no university a department exists, dealing exclusively with youth research. Examples – among many others – for departments dealing with youth research:

University of Innsbruck; Institute of Educational Sciences, Lynne Chisholm;

University of Klagenfurt; Institute of Educational Sciences, Stephan Sting;

University of Linz; Department of Empirical Sociological Research, Johann Bacher;

1.4 NGOs dealing with youth issues

Many youth organisations are conducting research for their own purpose (for example to develop appropriate offers) and for gaining knowledge on youth in general. The Austrian National Youth Council (BJV) is as an umbrella organisation of youth NGOs a main actor of research and as carrier organisation of the Austrian Youth research Institute a main actor of youth research. Beside that the umbrella organisation of open youth work – KOJE is also a main actor of gaining knowledge on young people.

1.5 Youth researchers or experts

Due to the fact that the number of researchers dealing with youth issues is very large and any list could only be incomplete and since no ranking should be induced no detailed list is provide.

For further details please contact the Austrian correspondent to the EKCYP, Manfred Zentner, mzentner@jugendkultur.at. Furthermore you will find contact details for the researchers on the webpages of most of the institutes mentioned.

1.6 Private companies dealing with youth issues

Since many social research institutes and most market research institutes are doing some studies on youth a complete list would be too large. We name only some that deal mainly with youth issues.

2 Legal basis or guidelines for activities leading to a better knowledge and understanding of youth

Following the decision of the parliament from September, 28th 1998, the youth department of the Federal Ministry in charge of youth issues is required to provide a report on the situation of youth each period of legislation. The last report – the 5th report on the situation of youth in Austria with the topic “Gender mainstreaming in youth work” – was presented to the parliament in 2008. The next report is currently prepared by a study group of experts. Parallel to that the provinces are conducting their own researches – in some of the Bundesländer these research is also carried out following provincial on a regular basis.

3 Funding for research on youth

3.1 International funding for carrying out activities aimed at youth research

Austria is partner in many international youth research projects – like the WHO-HSBC study, the European value survey and others.

Programmes funding research but no specific funding youth research (see www.eurodesk.org > Search for funding > Theme search > Research)

A complete list of international funding used for youth research in Austria is not available.

Please visit the corresponding EU webpages (research, public health, youth ...)

3.3 Public and private national funding for carrying out activities aimed at acquiring a better knowledge and understanding of youth

The Forschungsförderungsfonds promotes all kinds of research not only youth research. Furthermore many institutions and organisations mentioned in 1.2 and 1.3 are funding research and issuing calls for tender for special youth related research.

The Federal Ministry of Science and Research provides a database for research in general: Many Institutes of the Universities also provide information on research of the departments. The Federal Ministry for Economy, Family and Youth will in near future provide a special youth research related database.

5.2 Web-Portals

At the research section of the homepage of the Ministry for Economy, Family and Youth (<http://www.bmwfj.gv.at>) a collection of recent research on youth conducted on behalf of the ministry is available. Here also the Reports on the Situation of Youth in Austria (no. 4 and 5) can be downloaded. Furthermore a report on the International network on youth research conference in Vienna including the papers of the meeting is available.

The Austrian Ministry of Economy, Family and Youth offers the possibility to download recent and older studies and information on <http://www.bmwfj.gv.at/cms/site/bestellservice.html>

The institutes that primarily do youth research, OEIJ (<http://www.oeij.at/>) and jugendkultur.at (<http://www.jugendkultur.at/>), provide information on youth on their web pages. Both pages allow downloads of internal research results.

Facts, monthly online magazine, OEIJ, http://oeij.at/site/article_list.siteswift?do=all&c=gotosection&d=de%2Fpublikationen%2Ffacts%2Fpressdienst, online information service, jugendkultur.at

Furthermore newsletters exist from jugendkultur.at, OEIJ, ibw, Sora and other organisations that do research.

6 Methods and tools developed for keeping knowledge updated and coherent

The research database of Federal Ministry of Science and Research aims to provide knowledge on ongoing research. Furthermore the research databases of universities allow researchers to get an overview on ongoing research. These databases should be understood as service for researchers not as instrument of guiding the research.

With the establishment of this database it is not intended to downsize the freedom of science of research, but it is in the interest of the initiators (and sponsors) of research projects to avoid overlaps, it is their task to formulate the call for tenders appropriate to keep the knowledge updated and coherent.

9.2 Names and contacts for permanent national network for a greater knowledge and understanding of youth linking all actors in the field (policy makers, researchers, young people and their organisations, NGOs)

The national network for youth research is currently in the phase of establishing. For further details contact the Austrian correspondent to the EKCYP, Manfred Zentner, mzentner@jugendkultur.at.

9.3 Details on how this network works if it exists

Recently a feasibility study for the implementation of a national youth network was carried out. Based on the results of this study the national network should be established during the next months. The network shall also have a big influence on the development and quality management of youth research in Austria.

9.4 Strategy to set up a permanent national network linking all actors if not already existing.

Currently the National Network on Youth is being developed that will allow exchange of good practise between researchers and others dealing with youth issues. A feasibility study for the establishment of this network was finished 2007.
